Today, the word "peace" in the world and, since the concept of "tranquility" has become a huge deposit, the fact that yesterday's situation, yesterday's analysis and forecasts do not coincide with today makes it a necessity to develop a spirit of militancy in society. In this regard, the formation of military heroic ideals in youth thinking requires the systematic organization of education, the activation and elevation of these works. Therefore, a person with an understanding of his own, historical memory as a whole, independent-minded person does not commit treason to his homeland, but has a high quality of militancy in the military, ready to give life for him, exalting the benefit of the motherland above all, which clearly testifies to the fact that the protection of the motherland in students

In a time rich in current attitudes, a deeper thought of the objective conditions for the formation of truly combative feelings based on high humanity in young people is among our tactical and strategic goals. By making it necessary for the military to have the qualities of patience, endurance, perseverance, perseverance, courage and valor, the spirit of militancy, he essentially brings man from his daily petty worries to glory. That is, the student, through his martial character, goes from loving a selfish homeland, to realizing his moral duty in the motherland, grows up. By developing a spirit of militancy in students of the direction of military education up to the call, moral standards such as national pride, or-nomus are strengthened in the social worldview. The most important concepts related to the preservation of the country, the glorification of its fame to the world, the education of loyal citizens of Uzbekistan by warming up life and professional skills to the hearts and minds of students of the military educational direction on the basis of Science and education form the main content of our state.

The stability of the country is formed on the basis of the interconnection and availability of such factors as socio-economic, political, military, cultural, moral, domestic, technological, information. These, in the first goal, are aimed at solving the socio-political, economic, spiritual and moral problems of the country and directing it towards the goal. The formation of this system is a secondary dialectical process, in which such laws as complexity, extensibility and conflict are expressed. The system of stability is aimed at solving problems in mutual interest on the basis of purposefully directed methods and Means on the peace of civil society and the state, relying on organizational natural integration. Of particular importance in this is the role of the Armed Forces. Because its main task is to ensure the territorial integrity and stability of the country. Therefore, the upbringing of the personality of a mature military man is considered from important tasks, which is directly related to the process of military education and training. Although military equipment and weapons serve as the main means of protection, it is well known to us that, despite the presence of any excellent military equipment or equipment, the personality of military personnel, combat qualities, tactical capabilities are the main ones for their management, that is, the human factor serves as a decisive basis. To do this, special attention should be paid to the level of professional training of military personnel. This issue, considered one of the tasks of a special military-political nature, of a strategic nature, requires the training of mature military personnel for practice, providing them with educational training at the level of the requirements of the time, using the achievements of Science and technology perfectly. The approach to military training and professional education of those who choose the protection of the motherland as a profession for themselves on the basis of a scientific point of view is not only a matter of theoretical, but also of practical importance. Of particular importance in the formation and development of abilities is training-training. In the educational process, it is possible to create the most rational conditions for transferring the level of abilities to a higher level of development. To do this, first, it is necessary to train in the thinking of young people to formulate ideals of military heroism, to systematically analyze them using scientific methods, secondly, it is necessary to interest them in their scientific and creative activities, and thirdly to give them the opportunity to show more activity and independence in solving educational and social tasks.

In the military training system, special emphasis should be placed on strengthening the physical fitness of young people, increasing the spirit of militancy and the development of tactical training. Because the content and purpose of military activity is composed on the basis of the degree of formation of this indicator. For this reason, increasing the physical fitness of military personnel remains a glorious, responsible task facing those in charge of educational work, offices. Today, in order to develop the skills of quiet training among military personnel, it is necessary to develop such qualities as scientific research, legal literacy, deep sense of duty and responsibility, purity, honesty, dedication, hard work, creative initiative, business, faith, moderation, faithfulness, nationalism, humanity, truthfulness, loyalty, diligence, superstition. Therefore, it is recommended to conduct trainings, educational interviews and meetings, evenings and scientific and practical conferences, relying on the achievements of scientific pedagogy and psychology FA in training and activities to be held in the military-educational direction.

The following are the main tasks of the pedagogical process aimed at forming the ideals of military heroism in the thinking of educating young people in the spirit of patriotism:

- to educate young people in the spirit of national development strategy and devotion to the motherland, to instill in their heart and mind a deep duty that the protection of the Motherland is an honorable and sacred duty;

- to be proud of our ancient history and culture, our national heroes who selflessly fought for the independence and prosperity of the motherland, to form a feeling of being worthy of them, to strengthen confidence in the power and potential of our national army;

-strengthening the understanding that our national army needs physically strong and spiritually mature personnel, military service is a sacred duty for every citizen of Uzbekistan, as well as theoretical and practical skills in this regard; formation of approach skills in youth based on our national interests to socio-political processes taking place around us and in the world, a broad worldview in; to educate the military with the skills of quick and independent decision-making in any complex situations, the effective use of modern military equipment, the spirit of militancy and tactical training skills; to be prepared to protect the interests of Uzbekistan not only in the military sphere, but in all aspects of life, to be selfless for the country — to instill through life examples and impressive means that

The main goal facing upbringing is to instill in the minds of the growing generation the wise experience of the older generation, to shape and develop human qualities, to teach to feel duty and responsibility to the motherland and the nation, to make decisions about the qualities of compliance with the law. Because loyalty to the motherland, patriotism itself - with its powerful roots-goes back to the family, generation-to a deep reverence for the or - name of the ancestors, to the faithful-GI to the conscience and duty of a person himself. The high national values of the Uzbek people help to overcome the difficulties on the path of prosperity of the motherland - care, spiritual elevation of national pride.

The importance of the formation of heroic ideals is also determined by the need for the security of our country, strengthening its defense capacity, ensuring the safety of citizens. Therefore, the education of young servicemen on the basis of heroic ideals remains a glorious, responsible task facing educational work. One of the main tasks of our independent state today is to educate my country, a patriotic perfect person who lives burning and burning as glue. The formation and evolution of patriotic education is a process that lasts from the birth of a person to the end of his life. Because patriotic education, first of all, begins with the family. In this, the parents should not emotionally tell their children about the history of our ancestors, their heroism, their reputation in society, on the basis of which they should instill a sense of Homeland in the younger generation. True love, patriotism is to love this great homeland, to serve the people, to sacrifice their lives. Wherever the Homeland, only the one who selflessly fights for the interests of the people is a true patriot. A true patriotic person absolutely does not allow arrogance, to be a person who thinks only of his own interests, and does not take advantage of his own interests from his people, all the time there will be a soul, a body with the people. If servicemen do not love their native homeland, do not look at it faithfully, they cannot become a real harmonious person. The most important quality of humanity is also patriotism.

Goals vary from conducting ideological conflicts, which is known to be the only - gina preparing and applying the product of ideological struggle. However, it is clear that their Zamiri has economic and political and military goals. When the minds of our military personnel are explained by our offices on the basis of clear and examples of the negative and subversive sides of this issue, that is, ideological struggles, the influence of ideological attacks on our Armed Forces has taken hold, and our soldiers can perform their duty with honor, showing high courage. It should be noted that the army, in addition to educating young people, will warm them both physically and spiritually and arouse their affection for parents and family. In conclusion, as much attention is paid to the formation of a professional army in our country, the requirements for specialists in this field are also increasing. There are many reforms being carried out to sort out both physically and mentally mature candidates and to form them as specialists in accordance with the requirements of the Times. Previously, almost no requirements were laid for military service, today they are sorted by both physical fitness and literacy, and, moreover, by the knowledge gained in the necessary secondary and secondary-special vocational education for military specialties and specializations. The more the understanding of this is formed in young people, the more the quality of their training will also increase, and this will only have a positive effect on the increase in the level of personnel of our armed forces and other law enforcement agencies, the development of these areas and the possession of an army that does not lag behind the most progressive states.
